GENEVA, FEBRUARY 18.

YESterday, at 3, a very dangerous sedition broke out in this City. The design of the persons concerned in it was, to murder the Council, afterwards the Burgesses, and then to make themselves masters of the city. In half an hour more, all had been lost. Two or three hundred had already begun to fire, but did no other mischief than slightly wounding a few. The alarm was then given, and the general beat. The garison were in a moment under arms, and four of the seditious laid dead on the spot. Their main body, which exceeded two thousand, all active, bold persons, was at Vouro. The four Syndics in office went there, and ordered them to lay down their arms. The insurgents refused; but the good countenance of the garison, supported by a party of the burgesses, obliged them to surrender. The Ringleaders were taken and committed to prison, and it is imagined will lose their Heads, as well as several others, which have just been apprehended.

PARIS, FEBRUARY 19.

THE following remarkable event has lately happened here. The Count d'Eltaing having been informed that there was a man in the city, by trade a sadler, who took upon him the name and arms of Eltaing, the Count sent for him, and asked him how he dared to usurp his name and arms? The man answered, that he did not usurp them, but that he derived his right to them from his father. The Count then told him haughtily, that if he did not desist from using them, he would make him repent it. The sadler consulted a lawyer upon this affair who advised him not to use the name or arms, unless he could prove his right to them; to which the sadler answered, that he was brought up at the Founding-hospital, and that the directors of that charity told him, when he was sent from thence, that the name and arms of Eltaing belonged to him. Accordingly, the lawyer went with him to that hospital, and upon application to the principal director, he produced to them a letter in the hand-writing of the late Mr. d'Eltaing, declaring that the person in question was his son, by a girl of mean birth, whom he had privately married, which occasioned his sending the child to the Founding hospital. Some time afterwards he found means to satisfy this girl by giving her a sum of money, and married a lady of rank and fortune, by whom he had the present Count d'Eltaing. The lawyer finding that the last-mentioned was an illegitimate child being the issue of a second marriage, when the first was not set aside, told the sadler to continue the name and arms of Eltaing, as he had done before. The Count d'Eltaing thereupon caused the man to be cited before the Chatelet; where both parties being heard, and an authentic copy of the above letter produced, that court decided in favour of the sadler. The Count has appealed from this sentence, and the public is very impatient to know what will be the issue of this affair.

RAN AWAY the 16th of June last, a tall, likely Country-born, artful, fly NEGRO FELLOW, named NED, wears his Hair down his Cheeks, speaks slow, and will deceive Persons attempting to take him, by saying he belongs to some other Person: He formerly belonged to the Estate of Col. William Walter, at Goose-Creek, where, at Wampee Savannah, and at Mr. John Cattell's, near Dorchester, he has Relations, and is well known; he has also a Brother at Mr. R. Pinckney's, at Stono. FIFTY POUNDS Currency will be paid for bringing him to me, or the Warden of the Work-House: And, as I have Reason to believe, that he is harboured by some villainous white Person or Persons, or free Negroes, or has been shipped off to Barbados, or elsewhere, I will pay ONE HUNDRED POUNDS Currency, for sufficient Proof to convict any white Person of either Offence, in any Court in this Province; and TWENTY POUNDS Currency, for Proof of his being harboured by a free Negro, or FIVE POUNDS, if by a Slave.——And, that no Persons may be afraid to take him, thinking the Property in Dispute, they, by examining the Records of the Court, may be satisfied that I received £.350, besides Costs of Suit, for his being harboured before.
